PURSUE A CAREER IN SUPPLY CHAIN MANAGEMENT

Summit's Supply Chain Resource Management Program equips students with conscientious purchasing inventory/parts management, and production control strategies. The Supply Chain Management Program is a comprehensive program of study that includes: business communications, database management, introduction to accounting, purchasing and inventory; production control; and management of company resources, personnel, and information.

Graduates of the Supply Chain Resource Management Program are prepared for employment with manufacturing and construction companies, printing and publishing firms, warehouses, and retail and wholesale establishments.
